A 51-year-old motorcyclist from Washington state died Saturday evening in Kimball County, according to the Nebraska State Patrol.

Kenneth Dale Morton of Vancouver, Wash., was riding westbound on Interstate 80 at about 10 p.m. Saturday when he lost control of his motorcycle and slid into the median, an NSP dispatcher said. He then landed back in the westbound passing lane of the interstate, the dispatcher said. He died at the scene.

Troopers have not released the man's name. The dispatcher said the crash remains under investigation.
